Having spent more than 50 years on properties and functions of water in the environment and in life and technological processes, I must say that I am disappointed by the proposed format and content of your conference. I cannot see anything there that has not been discussed in more suitable venues. There are still so many problems surrounding water in our ecosphere, but none of them is included in your programme. What a pity. All I see are quite pedestrian titles of the kind that have been subjects for discussion for the past 30 years.
